- Disciplinary Policy and Procedure

The letter lodging the appeal must set out in full the reasons for appeal, i.e. procedural, new evidence, severity of sanction etc.

To ensure independence, an individual who has been directly involved in the circumstances leading to the outcome being appealed cannot be a panel member at the appeal hearing; for example the Investigating Manager, Commissioning Manager, Panel member, Staffside representative or Specialist Advisor.

6. Right to be Accompanied

An employee has the statutory right to request to be accompanied at an appeal hearing. The Companion¹ can be a Trade Union representative, an official employed by the Union or a work colleague.

An employee's request to be accompanied must be reasonable.

Before the appeal hearing the employee should inform the Trust of the identity of their Companion.

The Companion does not have the right to answer questions on behalf of the employee, disrupt the process or prevent the Trust from explaining their case. The Companion is not entitled to address the appeal hearing if the employee does not wish them to.

The employee is responsible for arranging their Companion to attend the appeal. Making such arrangements should not cause undue delay to the process as it is in the interests of everybody to deal with these matters promptly.

¹ With the exception of medical staff where their terms and conditions of employment expressly permit legal / other representation. Refer to the Trust's Maintaining High Professional Standards in the Modern NHS Policy and Procedure.

If the Companion is unavailable at the time the appeal hearing is scheduled, the employee can suggest an alternative time and date provided it is reasonable, other panel members are available and it is not more than seven (7) working days after the original date. Appendix A - Procedure

1. Procedure

1.1 Appeal Panel Membership

An appeal panel will comprise of a minimum of 3 members;

1. A manager more senior to the manager who made the decision at the formal stage (for all appeals against dismissal the manager must be Board level);
2. A senior HR representative;
3. Staffside representative.

Plus a Professional or Specialist Advisor as appropriate

1.2 Professional Advice

If appropriate, one member of the Panel should have special knowledge of the subject on which the appeal is based. Where this is not possible and the circumstances of the appeal are such that the work of the panel would be enhanced by having additional professional/technical information available to them, then a mutually agreed Professional Advisor may be appointed from outside the Trust.

The Professional Advisor will be experienced in the particular subject matter under review, and must not have any direct involvement in the circumstances leading up to the Appeal.

The Advisor may only advise the panel on any professional or technical matter arising during the course of the hearing which they feel may be related to the case. He/she will not be entitled to vote on the decision.

1.3 Arrangements for the Appeal Hearing

An HR representative will be responsible for setting up the appeal hearing. It is expected that the appeal hearing will be convened within 30 working days of receipt of the appeal letter. The HR representative will send a letter to the appellant inviting them to the appeal hearing giving at least ten working days' notice.

A written case will be prepared by the manager (responding manager) who made the decision being appealed. The responding manager will provide their rationale for the decision made and respond to the appellant's reasons for appeal.

The appellant may provide further information on their grounds for appeal in addition to their original appeal letter.

All information to be considered at the appeal hearing must be submitted to the HR representative five (5) working days before the appeal hearing who will then exchange the statements of case between the parties. The cases will be provided to the appeal panel four (4) working days prior to the appeal hearing. If, during the course of the hearing the appeal panel determines that new evidence needs to be presented, they will consider whether an adjournment is appropriate: much will depend on the weight of the new evidence and its relevance. The appeal panel has the power to determine whether to consider the new evidence as relevant to the appeal, or whether the case should be reheard on the basis of the new evidence by an independent panel in accordance with the relevant policy.

A failure by either party to disclose written material in accordance with the above may result in a refusal to admit such information at the appeal hearing. The Appeal panel hearing the case will decide whether to admit information following discussion with the individuals present as to the reason for the late disclosure and the significance of this information.

1.4 Procedure to be followed at the Appeal Hearing

1.4.1 Introduction by Chair

The Chair will:

- Introduce those present;
- Clarify why everyone is there, i.e. to hear the appeal against X decision on the grounds of Y;
- Outline the procedure for hearing

The Chair of the Appeal has the discretion to seek clarification or amplification of evidence, to recall witnesses and to adjourn the hearing for any reason (such as to allow further evidence to be produced or to clarify procedural matters) at any stage in the proceedings.

The Chair of the panel will rule on the admissibility of questions and evidence.

Similarly, questions should formally be put through the Chair of the panel.

1.4.2 Appellant Case

- The appellant will present their grounds for appeal.
- The employee will call any witnesses to support their case, as appropriate.
- All parties will have the opportunity to question the witnesses.
- The manager will have the opportunity to question the appellant about their case.
- The Appeal Panel members will have the opportunity to question the appellant.

1.4.3 Management Case

- The responding manager will present the case to support the decision taken.
- The responding manager will call any witnesses to support their case, as appropriate
- All parties will have the opportunity to question the witnesses
- The appellant will have the opportunity to question the responding manager's case.
- The Appeal Panel members will have the opportunity to question the responding manager.

1.4.4 Summary

- The appellant will be asked to summarise their case.
- The responding manager will be asked to summarise their case.

1.4.5 Appeal Decision

Where possible, the Chair will recall both parties after an adjournment to announce the decision verbally. If a decision cannot be made without further deliberation it may be necessary to communicate the decision in writing at a later date. In either event, it is expected that the outcome will be confirmed in writing to the appellant and their Companion no later than five (5) working days after the hearing date.

Potential outcomes of the appeal may be:

- That the appeal is rejected and the original decision is upheld;
- That aspects of the original decision are overturned and others are upheld;
- That the original decision is fully overturned;
- That the sanction in place is downgraded, i.e. dismissal to a final written warning. There would be no further right of appeal against a downgraded sanction;
- That further investigation is recommended with reconsideration of the original decision;
- That the case be reheard by an independent panel on the basis of new evidence.

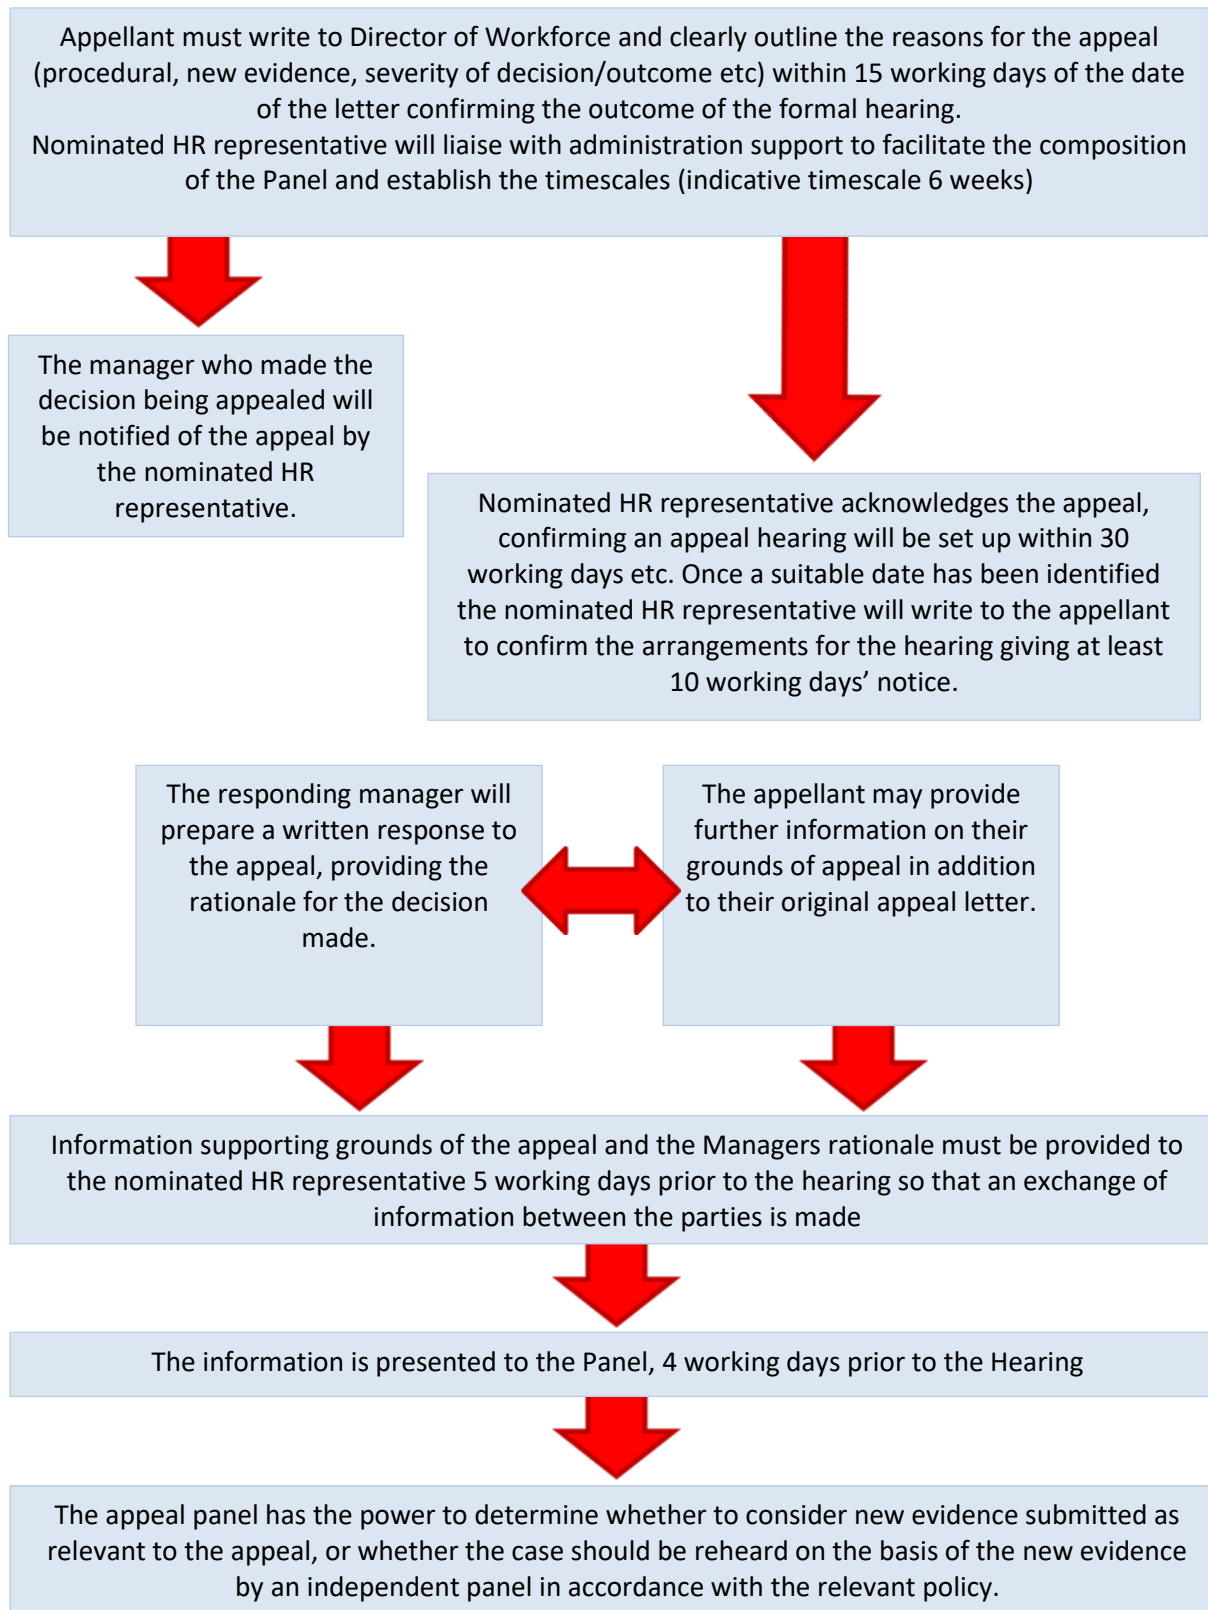

The above list is not exhaustive.

The appeal is the end of the internal process.

Note – all records and reports received / created by the appeal panel should be forwarded to the relevant HR representative at the end of the appeal process.
